WHAT’S IT LIKE TO BE A SEAFOOD LOVER WHO’S PREGNANT?

Well, if that’s you, perfect! Pregnancy is one of the best times to indulge your love of fish. Here’s why:

- Seafood is tasty and craveable
- Studies show eating fish during pregnancy gives moms and babies lots of health benefits
- Seafood is easy to make and a natural “fast food”
We designed this guide for you, a savvy seafood lover, so you know these things about fish during pregnancy:

- Why eating fish is important for you and your baby
- How much fish you should be eating
- How to fit seafood into your diet

After your Baby arrives
You’re already in the groove of eating well, so keep it up after baby arrives for these reasons:

- Your breast milk will be full of nutrients from all the healthy foods you eat
- Wholesome foods will fuel your new, even busier schedule
- You’re setting a positive example for your little one, who will be eating solid foods in just 4-6 months

The “Pregnancy Pantry” list at the back of this guide can help make sure you have plenty of nutrient-rich foods and snacks on hand at home.

A few easy tips to keep your eating in control when dining out:

- Portion Sizes
  Restaurant portions are usually more than you need, so split them with your dining partner or take half home for leftovers.

- Color, Color, Color
  Order a meal with nutrient-rich side dishes such as leafy greens, grilled vegetables or broccoli. The more colorful your plate, the more nutrients you’ll get.

- Protein
  Fish is a delicious and healthy choice when dining out. Choose seafood you know you like such as tuna, salmon or shrimp, or try a new type. Ask for grilled or broiled fish and avoid butter and cream sauces.

- Don’t Forget Dessert
  If you want a rich dessert, split it with your dining companions. For something with less fat and calories, choose fresh fruit or sorbet.

BEST FOODS FOR YOU & YOUR BABY

You are what you eat. And when you’re pregnant, you and your baby are what you eat. Choosing the right foods now can make a big difference in your baby’s growth and health.

Aim to eat a variety of nutrient-rich foods. This means foods that are full of vitamins and minerals without being too high in calories.

The nutrients below are especially important when you’re pregnant and all can be easily found in foods like fish.

BANISH THE “BABY BLUES”

Some women have symptoms of depression during and after pregnancy. A recent study found that eating fish less than two to three times a week during your pregnancy may increase your chance of getting depression. This is probably because your brain isn’t getting the omega-3 DHA it needs.

ARE YOU EATING ENOUGH SEAFOOD?

Pregnant women are nowhere close to eating as much seafood as they should. Why? Maybe you’ve heard the wrong information on the news. Maybe something in the paper has you confused. But when you turn to the experts, the advice is really simple and clear.

DURING YOUR PREGNANCY, OFFICIAL GUIDELINES AND EXPERTS SAY:

• Eat seafood two to three times each week

• Eat a variety of fish

• As much as half (six ounces) of fish each week can be albacore tuna

• The only fish to avoid are shark, swordfish, king mackerel and tilefish

EATING: MEDITERRANEAN STYLE

To get the powerhouse nutrients you and your baby need, eat a variety of tasty, whole foods. The Mediterranean Diet Pyramid is overflowing with colorful examples of simple, smart choices:

- Meats and Sweets
  - Less often
- Poultry and Eggs
  - Moderate portions, every two days or weekly
- Cheese and Yogurt
  - Moderate portions, daily to weekly
- Fish and Seafood
  - Often, at least two times per week
- Fruits, Vegetables, Grains (mostly whole), Olive Oil, Beans, Nuts, Legumes and Seeds, Herbs and Spices
  - Base every meal on these foods
- Drink Water

CREATIVE MIX-INS TO SATISFY CRAVINGS

WHEN YOU’RE PREGNANT, SOMETIMES IT FEELS BETTER TO EAT SEVERAL MINI-MEALS INSTEAD OF A BIG MEAL. AN EASY GO-TO FOR A NUTRIENT-RICH SNACK IS CANNED FISH. WHIP UP A TUNA, SALMON OR CRAB SALAD USING THESE CREATIVE AND CRAVEABLE MIX-INS:

(Eat on whole wheat bread or pita for a sandwich or use as a dip with crackers and cut vegetables.)

CREAMY

- Avocados
- Cottage cheese
- Cream cheese
- Diced hard boiled eggs
- Mayonnaise
- Olive oil
- Peanut sauce
EATING SEAFOOD FOR TWO

You only need about 300 extra calories a day during your pregnancy. So when you get a craving, satisfy it with a nutrient-rich food. The Mediterranean Diet is full of sweet foods like fruit, creamy foods like yogurt, and savory foods like fish to help satisfy your cravings during pregnancy.

Your pregnancy weight is important—too little weight gain can keep your baby from getting all the nutrients he or she needs to grow; too much weight gain may increase your chance of getting gestational diabetes (diabetes that starts during pregnancy). But rather than obsess over the scale just remember to eat simply, drink lots of water and stay active.

SUBSTITUTING SUSHI

To reduce your chance of getting sick from food, you shouldn’t eat any raw meats during pregnancy.

Sushi is tasty, nutritious and fun; just make sure to stick with cooked types when you’re pregnant.

There are many types of cooked sushi—just look for the ‘cooked’ sticker when shopping in your grocery store or ask your server when dining out.

If you are counting down the days to when you can “go raw,” set a dinner date with your partner for a few weeks after the baby arrives.

CRUNCHY
• Diced apples
• Diced celery
• Diced water chestnuts
• Sliced carrots
• Chopped nuts (almonds, walnuts)

SALTY
• Capers
• Soy sauce
• Chopped nuts (dry-roasted peanuts, cashew halves)

SPICY
• Herbs
• Jalapeños
• Red onion
• Red pepper flakes

TART
• Balsamic vinegar
• Lemon or lime juice
• Mustard
• Dried fruit (cherries, cranberries)
AFTER YOUR BABY ARRIVES

You’re already in the groove of eating well, so keep it up after baby arrives for these reasons:

- Your breast milk will be full of nutrients from all the healthy foods you eat
- Wholesome foods will fuel your new, even busier schedule
- You’re setting a positive example for your little one, who will be eating solid foods in just 4-6 months

DINING OUT

A few easy tips to keep your eating in control when dining out:

DON’T FORGET DESSERT
If you want a rich dessert, split it with your dining companions. For something with less fat and calories, choose fresh fruit or sorbet.
One of the most important things breastfeeding moms need to eat is healthy omega-3 DHA. Studies show that children who are breastfed tend to have better eyesight and higher IQ scores, and do better in school. These benefits may be due to the high level of omega-3 DHA in breast milk.
SCOOPE-IT-UP TUNA

- 5 ounces canned light tuna in water
- 1 small carrot, shredded
- 1/4 apple (any kind), diced
- 3 to 4 Tbsp mayonnaise
- Dash of salt and pepper
- Scoopers: baked tortilla chips, mini whole-wheat pitas, crackers or sliced cucumbers

1. Combine the tuna, carrot, apple, mayonnaise and dash of salt and pepper in a medium bowl. Mix well.

2. To pack for a school lunch, place the tuna salad in a plastic container with a tight-fitting lid. Pack “scoopers” in separate containers.

CHILI LIME SALMON TACOS

- Cooking spray or 2 Tbsp olive or canola oil
- 8 soft corn tortillas
- 15 ounces canned salmon, drained
- 1 lime, juiced
- 1 cup lettuce, shredded
- 1 Tbsp taco seasoning or chili powder
- 2 Tbsp fresh cilantro, chopped (optional)
- Salsa or hot sauce (optional)

1. Coat a large non-stick skillet with cooking spray or olive oil. Place skillet on stovetop over medium heat.
2. Warm each tortilla by cooking in skillet for about 30 seconds. Set tortillas aside.
3. Place salmon, lime juice and taco seasoning or chili powder in skillet to heat up, about 2 minutes.
4. Fill warm corn tortillas with salmon mixture.
5. Top with lettuce, cilantro and salsa or hot sauce if you like, and serve.

Nutty Shrimp Pasta

- 1 pound pre-cooked frozen shrimp
- 8 ounces dried whole-wheat angel hair pasta
- 1 Tbsp olive oil
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced (about 1 cup)

SAUCE:
- 1 (16-oz) bag frozen pepper strips
- 11/2 cups vegetable broth, low-sodium
- 3 Tbsps all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup Thai peanut sauce

1. Defrost shrimp and peppers in the refrigerator overnight.
2. Cook the pasta according to package directions. Drain and set aside.
3. While the pasta is cooking, heat olive oil in a large saucepan. Add onion and sauté for 2 minutes. Add peppers and cook another 2 minutes.
4. In a small bowl, whisk together broth, flour and peanut sauce. Add sauce to onion and peppers and bring to a simmer while stirring. Reduce heat and stir another 2 minutes until mixture thickens.
5. Add the pasta and shrimp and heat through. Top with peanuts and serve.

Tilapia Tacos

- 2 pounds fresh tilapia fillets
- 8-12 whole-wheat soft tortillas
- 1/4 cup olive oil

SAUCE:
- 1/3 cup fresh cilantro, chopped
- 2 jalapeños, seeded
- 1/2 cup plain low-fat yogurt

TOPPINGS:
- 1/2 cup low-fat sour cream
- 1 avocado, peeled and sliced
- 1 tsp fresh lime juice
- Shredded cabbage
- Salsa
- Fresh lime wedges

1. Combine cilantro and jalapeños in a food processor. Mix until coarsely chopped.
2. Add yogurt, sour cream, avocado and lime juice. Blend until smooth. Keep this sauce refrigerated until needed.
3. Brush tilapia fillets with olive oil and grill over medium heat for 2-4 minutes per side, until cooked through.
5. Place half of a fillet in center of each tortilla. Add shredded cabbage, fold tortilla and top with salsa. Garnish with fresh lime wedges.
